

To live in my Will – to give no life to the human will

“My daughter, they do not want to understand.

To live in my Will is to reign.

To do my Will is to be submitted to my orders.

The first state is to possess.

The second is to receive my orders and execute them.

To live in my Will

- is to make my Will one's own, as one's own thing,
- it is to dispose of It.

To do my Will is to hold It as Will of God,

- not as one's own thing,
- nor can one dispose of It as one wants.

To live in my Will is to live with one single Will – that of God.

And since

- It is a Will all holy, all pure, all peace, and
 - it is one single Will that reigns,
- there are no contrasts - everything is peace.

Human passions

- tremble before this Supreme Will, and
- want to shun It

They don't dare to even move, or oppose It,

- seeing that Heaven and earth tremble before this Holy Will.

So, the first step of living in the Divine Will – what does it do?

It lays the divine order in the depth of the soul, emptying her

- of what is human
- of tendencies, of passions, of inclinations and the like.

On the other hand, to do my Will is to live with two wills.

And when I give orders to do Mine,

- one feels the weight of one's own will, which causes contrasts.

And even if one follows the orders of my Will with faithfulness, one feels the weight

- of one's rebellious nature,
- of one's passions and inclinations.

How many Saints, though they may have reached the highest perfection,

- feel their own will waging war against them, keeping them oppressed.

And many are forced to cry out: 'Who will free me from this body of death?'

that is - from this will of mine,

which wants to give death to the good I want to do?

To live in my Will is to live as a son To do my Will is to live as a servant.
